Grande opening reveiw

Written By Anne #13

Hi everybody!

Just wanted to say how much fun I had at Barbies grand re-opening! There were a lot of familiar faces as well as a few new ones. Barble and her crew of volunteers did a fantastic job of remodeling the place and the over abundant "PINK" theme leaves no doubt about the locations feminine orientation! And what about our little Randy!! He may be short but he is LONG on jokes! Randy did a super job of MC'ing and with his quick, sly, and sometimes cutting wit he helped to maintain continuity throughout the evening. Great job Randy we hope you will do it for us again sometime! Who loves ya, baby?

Would like to thank all the participants in the "Chanel 5 TV" band for their willingness to participate on stage in a little live music. It was very short notice but proved to be an interesting experience and was fun. We have had good response from more of the girls who are musically inclined and it now appears that we may be able to offer more live entertainment than we originally anticipated. I am hoping to get everyone who has expressed an interest in participating together in the near future to kick some ideas around. Let's not forget our typ sync'ers. I have a special admiration for those who do this and the girls did a super job that night! Keep up the good work!!!!!! In all it was a great night with plenty of lovely ladies wearing great outfits. As always, I am anxious to see any photo's that were taken. Hopefully we will see a few in the next issue of the newsletter and with any luck at all they will turn out better than the photo of us "Royalty Ladies" in the Aug/Sep issue. Eeekkk! that was a terrible shot! I hope that one doesn't get into the commercial version or I might never get my hands on another willing male!!! I've gone on enough for now. Best wishes and I hope to see you all at the upcoming meetings.

News!!

Hooker night was a great sucess with a good turnout. Some of the outfits were quite XXX and for once I was tamily dressed compared to some others there. the team of judges lead by Ken had a tough decision. But with careful deliberation and a lot of help from the crowd Wendy won for having the most arresting outfit. Found any good uses for your prize Wendy???

All in all the night was a great sucess for being our first regular social in the club. The place lent itself to our style very well and made the meeting just that much better.

Another thing should be mentioned Terry was disqualified for reasons that was true!!! she is a profeslional (not hooker but performer) and Sephanie W. Should be charged for littering for that boall

Optical "Illusion"

In putting together a wardrobe the goal with your clothing is to accentuate the positive and camouflage or cover up the negative. By creating an optical "Illusion". You can practically reshape any part of your body just by selecting the right garments.

To start with, colour plays an important role in creating optical "Illusion". Dark colours decrease size and light colours increase size. The colour can be applied to accessories as well. Light coloured shoes will make a narrow foot appear wider. If you have a larger than desired waistline and feel you must really wear a belt, try to stick with a darker thinner one or preferably one whose colour blends in with your outfit. Knowing what colours are best for you is important too-- not only for the look you project but for the way you feel. To get a general idea of which colours are right for you, drape a large solid piece of beige fabric next to your face- then replace it with a piece of white fabric. What's the overall impression do you receive??

If you look best in the beige fabric colour you probably have a warm coloured complexion- in the white colour a cool toned one. To determine whether a colour is warm or cool, see if it looks warm, glowing (not bright) and earthy, it's probably warm; if it looks cool sedate almost forestry in feeling- it's probably cool.

The second in optical "Illusion" is "line". To look slimmer wear clothing that has vertical lines to it, instead of horizontal lines which tend to widen. Examples of vertical lines are vertical stripes and buttons; belts are horizontal lines. Square necklines will make a person appear larger busted; so will round necklines. However deep V necklines will usually make the bustline appear flatter. Necklines can also emphasize or disguise certain face shapes. For instance if you have a square face you'll want to stay away from square necklines. Instead wear more rounded necklines. If your face is long and narrow, you'll want to wear rounded necklines and minimize length. If your face is round, that's when a V neckline will help by adding length to your face.

Hemlines are another area where this concept applies. Generally the longer the hemline the slimmer you'll look. Lengths above the knee tend to cut you visually in two, therefore making you appear shorter and wider.

In the area of shoes, short heels will make slim legs look fatter and high narrow heels will make legs appear slimmer.

Accessories is the icing on the cake for the complete look. Remember to keep the colour of your accessories within the same colour family. If you are wearing gold coloured jewelry...don't mix it with silver.. It looks tacky!!

Be the best you can be. Keep on learning, changing, improving, practising and enjoying.
You are Beautiful!!

A letter of Thanks

Happy New Home

Now that the drywal dust has settled and the paint has dried, it is a good chance for me to say my thank you's...

I realize that some small tokens were given out at the grand opening, but I would like to say thank you again, to "ALL" those people who were involved.

Through out the month of august while we renovated, serveral people spent many hours working hard. Our construction crew of Stephanie, Danielle, and of course Bree, combined their skills and efforts to biuld everything from a bar to a workable stage, and a comfy make-up room. Never mind just geting the entire space to a comfortable, living area.

Once our painting team of Amanda and Wendy Blew in, the place was upside down again only to surface really "Pretty in Pink". Amandas' knowledge and eagerness to test her painting skills in a warehouse was a chore and a half!!! BRAVO!!!

Karen kept us going with her wit and humor when some of us were weary and need it most. She also used her Maid talents to let new light into our new home.

There are others to, Misstress Anne dug out some old rug which looks super, Ted took an afternoon out to help shop for bar stools, Marsha brought down her fridge and help out with some electrical problems, and Terry help with some decorating touches. There were others that popped in and out with words of encouragement. So thanks again to all who put their love and time into our new home

Thanx.....

As I entered my pre-teen years, my fetish rapidly turned in to a compulsion. By this time, I had long since become bored with mom's "stuff". Still, without resources, not even as much as an allowance, I had resorted to "clothes line theft". The world was a smorgasbord once I had discovered most others wore far more sexy underthings than mother. But like most kids, my success was short lived and was persecuted severely when my "stash" was discovered. Throughout this period, I could never understand why my mother was so upset I was wearing bras and panties all the time. Other than punishing me for stealing, something I could understand, I had always felt she preferred me this way.

Getting caught never deterred my resolve. But I quickly learned odd jobs could be had and money could be made to turn my fantasies in to realities. I can still remember how unnerving my first shopping trip in to fantasy wear was but a hurdle that had to be overcome. Again my wardrobe of underthings would flourish, and time again it would be found and the endless persecution that would follow never seemed to end. By the time I had reached my teens, I had always known when my senior year was in sight, I would be leaving this nest and what was acquired from that time was mine and would remain mine.

It hardly seemed any time had passed from high school to my first marriage. Before we had children, she seemed to readily accept my desire to wear feminine underwear and nighties whenever I had the urge. At this time, I still was not in to much outer wear and was content to remain quite safely in the closet. When our two children arrived, all my feminine fantasies were banished to our bedroom well past their bedtime. Eventually, the persecution would return, this time from my wife, and as a result, after 10 years of mind games, our divorce became imminent. Many other factors were also involved, but my continued desire to dress feminine was a contributing factor.

Before I remarried, I had decided that now that I had found myself back in the dating game, I would "purge" myself once and for all. For the most part, I was content with my life as it was proceeding, but the persistent yearnings always remained and constantly reminded me of my suppressed desires. However, I fought it, well in to the fourth year of my present marriage. I deceived the most open-minded woman I will ever know and love in this life time and hurt her deeply not trusting her enough to handle this hidden side of me. I almost witnessed the breakup of my second marriage - not because I was a transvestite, but because I did not have the nerve to tell her at the beginning of our relationship this special side of me. I thank the powers above we had managed to overcome this hurdle and keep our marriage together. Not only do I now have an understanding and supportive mate, but an active one as well. The lesson learned here is "communication" and lots of it.

To date, this is my great ending. With the help of my wife, friends, and certain professionals, I have almost totally come out of the closet and in to the world the way I choose to live it. They say life begins at 40. If so, it leaves me a year to get the finishing touches together. Then look out. Here I come.

Joline L. Winslow
Small Beginnings
Great Endings

As we have all discovered, we all have our stories, and as we examine each respective story, we find not only are we unique, but we reveal distinct similarities, as well.

Like many other of my like-minded sisters, my beginnings go far into my early childhood. My father, being a typical long distance truck driver, was hardly ever around and could make no claim to being a significant driving force in my life other than a dumping ground to administer additional discipline upon one of his rare visits home. That left me and my siblings to the mercy of my mother's values, which I still believe, if practiced today, would be highly questionable in the letter of today's law.

But unlike my siblings, I was still treated much different than any other member of our little family. The reason for this finally became clear in my 36th year of life. In the 50's and 60's, life was still very much chauvenistic in respect to what was a female thing and what was male. Although I had a sister that was very capable of "woman's work", for the majority of my life, at home, these tasks were allocated to me. My only objection was the lack of participation from the others, thus for the most part, I had to suffer through what might be commonly known as the "cinderella syndrome".

Chores aside, other oddities occurred in my early childhood. As far back as I can remember, I never went out for Halloween unless I was totally dressed female. The costume had to be complete from the inside out. For some reason, my mother revelled in recreating me as feminine as she could. Although noone could see, it would not do unless I had the right undergarments on, dress and accessories coordinated, perfume and makeup in all the proper places. Not knowing any better at the time, I quickly learned to enjoy this lavishment of attention and look forward to every subsequent Halloween. In my mind, I determined my mother loved me more as a little girl. Nothing else seemed to explain this attention I was receiving that I so longed for that I never seemed to receive any other time.

I seemed to always be at my mother's side doing things for her I felt, even then, my sister should have been doing. Washing her back was a common chore, applying talc to her girdle, and fastening her garters when she dressed never seemed to be anyone's duty but mine. Admittedly, I learned to enjoy seeing my mother's semi-nude body until I felt I needed to have my own wardrobe of panties, bras, garters, and nylons. And like so many others, because I had no money to buy my own, I would steal bits and pieces from my mother and even relatives when they visited.

Joline
